BROTHERHOODS BACK DOWN WHEN ULTIMATUM PRESENTED

JOSEPH LORD DENIES PUBLISHED STATEMENT

"I want the Bonanza to deny for me the statement that appears in the morning paper to the effect that I suggested that the mine operators pay the dollar a day advance demanded. It is unfair to me to print any such statement as it tends to handicap me in my work. I am not making recommendations and it would be wrong for me to express myself in that way when I am here as a mediator without taking part with either side. It is my business to bring men and operators together and I will say that I found both sides reasonable and not difficult to deal with. Such publication as this is likely to embarrass those who are working for the best interests of the camp."

Joseph Lord, federal mediator, expressed himself this morning in the above language after he read a statement committing himself to one feature of the issue between the Tonopah and Divide Mine operators and their former employees. He was calm but it did not require an inquiry to cause him to set himself right before the world as a real mediator who has a definite mission to accomplish and a duty to perform. His conferences yesterday were devoted to acquiring first hand information and he paid a high compliment to the men on all sides and of every shade of opinion with whom he was brought in contact. The business of today will be reflected in further conferences with mine operators, both divisions of the workers and the unorganized Divide operators who have occupied a peculiar position throughout the dispute.

Mr. Lord is also engaged in acquiring facts about the cost of mine operation and supplies, the cost of living and rents and otherwise informing himself regarding the issues that have been raised.

Although railroad officials began calling crews at midnight none reported early today.

Brotherhood men said strikers at San Bernardino voted to act in accordance with the decision of the Los Angeles men. There is no likelihood of a resumption of traffic before night unless the men act speedily, railroad officials said.

The Pacific Electric announced that it would maintain a normal daylight service today. The Los Angeles Railway said its daylight service was normal. Both continued to suspend the night service.

ELY STRIKERS RESUME WORK IN THE MINES

Sheriff Barker received a telegram dated 9:20 this morning from the sheriff of White Pine county, reading as follows:

"Strike settled. Men accept raise of 75 cents and company agrees to put in commissary and sell to men at cost."

Senator Kent Keller of Illinois, who arrived from Ely last night said that the only trouble remaining from the discussions was the effort of the brotherhood men to butt into the industrial situation by claiming the right to organize all handlers of shovels and steam in the district under the laws of the brotherhood. The company gave an ultimatum yesterday morning to the effect that if the brotherhood men did not remain within their proper sphere and leave the industrial departments to the regularly organized men they would be dropped completely and the railroad administration asked to operate trains. Apparently this firm stand had the right effect as it is inferred from the bulletin given above that the railroad men receded from their position. Senator Keller said that five per cent would be added to the cost in selling commodities to cover overhead. The commissary, the men say, means a saving of 20 per cent on foodstuffs.

At 1:40 this afternoon a dispatch from Ely stated that only a part of the men went to work and that "the lucky skimmers may yet tie the whole works up."

The outside newspaper mail did not get through.
